Department of Political and Cultural Studies

Political and Cultural Studies is truly inter-disciplinary in its research culture and has established a reputation for innovative and world class research. This is apparent through an extensive publication output, a record of organising major conferences, seminars and research networks and a wide range of contributions to public life beyond academia. Our researchers have leading roles in the Callaghan Centre for the Study of Conflict, Power and Empire, the Centre for the Study of Culture and Politics (C-SCAP) and the Burton Centre for the Study of Wales.

The Department is committed to deliver exciting teaching programmes which are intellectually wide-ranging, stimulating and demanding. We build on a track record of delivering high quality masters and undergraduate degrees that now goes back several decades and many of our graduates have gone on to successful academic and professional careers in government, education, media, intelligence and risk analysis, defence and foreign affairs, the diplomatic core, armed forces, global marketing and advertising, International and National business and relief and humanitarian organisations.

We offer three distinct research degrees, each of which requires you to conduct original research on a specific topic:

- A PhD (100,000 word thesis; three years full-time - five years part-time)
- An MPhil (60,000 word thesis; two years full-time - four years part-time)
- An MA by Research (30,000 word thesis; one year full-time - two years part-time)

Entry Requirements

PhD entry requirements are an upper second degree plus a Master's degree in a relevant subject. M.Phil and Master's by Research applicants must have a minimum of 2.1 at undergraduate level or relevant Professional qualifications. International applicants should have a minimum IELTS of 6.5 or equivalent. Students may enrol in September, January, April or July.

How to Apply

Applications can be made to either the University's Admissions Office or look at the website - www.swansea.ac.uk/postgraduate, where you will also find the on-line application form and details of current fees.
