The food we eat, the air we breathe, the water we drink and climate that makes our planet habitable all come from nature. In these exceptional times for many it has been an opportunity to connect back with nature, to take notice, to reflect and to express gratitude. #fornature

This year the UN World Environment Day and Wales Biodiversity Partnerships are celebrating BIODIVERSITY and NATURE. So, this week the Sustainability team will be bringing you lots of information, top tips, recommendations, activities and opportunities to learn and get involved with World Environment Day 2020 and Wales Nature Week.

You will be able to find all the information and links across our SWell social media platforms, our SWell yammer page and our Get Involved ‘SWell Weekly’ Sustainability website page.